

Ohio State Glee Club To Sing at WHS Next Week

Widely-Known Singer To Perform Here on February 24 Program

The students of Washington High School can look forward to an entertaining assembly program on Friday, February 24, when the Ohio State University Men's Glee Club comes here.

The glee club is a major music activity of the university and boasts a history as old as OSU itself.

There have been some memorable events in the past history of the glee club. One was the presentation for the first time in America, of "Kubla Kahn," by the English composer Granville Bantock.

Another remembered event was the glee club's performance of "Italian Street Song," directed by Victor Herbert.

Born As a Quartet

Originally organized as a quartet, the glee club now has a total of fifty-five members and includes between thirty-five and fifty men while on tour. The club is under the supervision of the school of music, of which Eugene Weigel is director. Most club members are from the Colleges of Agriculture, Commerce and Engineering.

The glee club's director is Norman Staiger, assistant professor in the school of music of OSU. He has appeared in or directed over eighty dramatic and comic opera productions. In radio, he has sung on many commercial and sustaining programs and took his radio choral training under Lyn Murray. Mr. Staiger's Carnegie Hall appearance two seasons ago received favorable comment from the New York Times.

Elwood Ransdell, of Greenfield, is the glee club treasurer. He graduates this June from the College of Arts and Sciences as a vocal major and has been with the club four years.

The glee club's soloist, Marguerite Wadsworth, is a junior in the School of Music. She has sung major roles in Cleveland's nationally-known Cain Park Theater.

Martha Jo Mulbarger, the glee club's accompanist, is a senior in the School of Music and a member of the Symphony Club of Central Ohio.

The assembly program featuring the OSU Glee Club will begin at 8:50 A. M. on February 24, WHS Principal Arthur E. Wohlers said.

Admits Wife Killing

At Moundsville, Warden Orel Skeen said Ohio authorities had interviewed sites at the prison recently but he did not know what they talked about.

Sponaugle said he understood Ohio officers planned to file a detainer at Moundsville so they could prosecute him in case he ever was released from the prison. Sites originally lived in this area but about 18 years ago he moved to Ohio. He returned to Pendleton County about six months before the Hedrick slaying.

Mainly About People

Mrs. Loren I. Bennett entered Mt. Carmel Hospital, Columbus, Wednesday, where she underwent major surgery Thursday morning.

John Moore was returned from University Hospital, Columbus, to his home in Edgfield, Wednesday, afternoon in the Morrow ambulance.

Mrs. Harry Haines was returned from Doctor's Hospital, Columbus, to her home, 420 Grove Avenue, Wednesday afternoon in the Parrett ambulance.

Mrs. James Shaltry and infant son, Steven, were brought from Greenfield Hospital to their home, 525 East Paint Street, Thursday morning, in the Parrett ambulance.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Hagler of the Lewis Road, are the parents of a six pound, eight ounce daughter, born in Grant Hospital, Columbus, Wednesday. The little girl has not been named.

Mrs. Norman Mills and infant son were removed from Doctor's Hospital, Columbus, Wednesday, to their home at Williamsport, making the trip in the Kirkpatrick ambulance.

Mrs. Alfred M. Browne and infant daughter, Sharon Freda, were brought from Greenfield Hospital, to their home, 1304 Grace Street, Thursday morning, in the Hook and Son ambulance.

Mrs. J. A. Willison, who was a patient in St. Anthony Hospital, Columbus, for several days, was returned to her home, 736 High Street, Wednesday afternoon, in the Parrett ambulance.

Mrs. Anna Cutlip is recovering nicely at her home, 724 South Main Street, where she was returned Wednesday afternoon, from Grant Hospital, Columbus, after undergoing major surgery.

John M. Weade was returned Wednesday to his home on the Flakes Ford Road in the Hook and Son invalid coach, after undergoing major surgery in St. Anthony Hospital, Columbus.

Mrs. James Wilson and infant son, Bruce Edward, were brought from Greenfield Hospital, to the home of Mrs. Wilson's mother, Mrs. P. M. Cook, on Columbus Avenue, Thursday morning in the Hook and Son ambulance.

Mrs. Viva White, 915 South Main Street, is now recovering nicely after having a part of a needle, almost a half inch long, removed from the left wrist, which became imbedded in the tissues about three months ago. Dr. Paul Craig successfully removed the needle after several preparatory operations during the past weeks.

Reappraisal Hearing

Acton said he pressed for early decision, pointing to the fact that collection of taxes in this county is being delayed because no tax rates are available until the board acts.

Acton said that Ferd Becker, who was present and took an active part in the proceedings, offered assistance in rate making following the decision of the board.

Acton went into methods used in the reappraisal here at some length, upon inquiry by the board, and answered numerous

Grand Commander At Inspection Here

For the first time in 10 years, an inspection of the Garfield Commandery of the Masonic lodge here was attended by the state's grand commander.

And the day after, members of the lodge were saying that the turnout was the largest in that time, too.

The inspection was held in the Masonic Temple, Wednesday evening, with Samuel Mickelson, of Cincinnati, a past grand commander, as the inspecting officer.

Grand Commander R. W. Taylor came here from Columbus for the affair as a special guest.

The dinner was served by the Eastern Star, of which Mrs. Orpha Wilson is the worthy matron.

Seated at the tables were 106 knights of the order. They came from Columbus, Cincinnati, Chillicothe, Circleville, Lancaster and Athens to join those of the Garfield Commandery here.

William McFadden is the eminent commander of the order here.

The ladies were the guests for the dinner. A social get-together was held afterwards in the Masonic Temple parlors.

Services Are Held For Will Noble

Well attended services for Will Noble, prominent resident of near New Holland, who passed away early this week were held at the Methodist Church in New Holland at 2 P. M. Wednesday. Services were conducted by Rev. W. A. Ervin, pastor of the New Holland Methodist Church.

Rev. Ervin read the Scriptures, offered prayer and delivered the sermon.

Coyt Cleary and Pryor Timons sang the hymns, "In The Sweet Bye and Bye" and "The Old Rugged Cross." Mrs. Mary McGhee was at the piano.

There were many beautiful floral tributes.

Interment was made in the mausoleum in the New Holland Cemetery.

The pallbearers were Everett McCormick, Charles Bryant, Arthur Noble, Clarence Noble, Newton Lynn and William Maulier.

questions about valuations made, and the manner in which they were reached.

One question dealt with dairy barns in the county, Acton said, and this query was answered to the satisfaction of the board.

Acton said apparently someone had given the state tax department some misinformation, and this apparently was straightened out in the hearing held Wednesday.

It had been indicated that the matter would be settled at the hearing, but this was not done.

Skunk Valentine

Crocker's item did not mention Hedda or Miss Fontaine, a close friend of Miss Bennett, by name. It read in part:

"Hollywood is smiling tolerantly at the inane attack in print by a certain female upon a young star for her gay New Year's eve dance. Hollywood realizes that this and similar ridiculous outbreaks are the result of her years of frustration as a jobless actress."

The bottom of the ad read: "This couldn't be you, could it, Hedda?"

(Signed) Joan Bennett."

Governor Picketed

The governor was not at the mansion when the delegation marched. Earlier he had declined to talk with the men and women, referring them to Frank J. Collopy, administrator of the Bureau of Employment Compensation.

Collopy said he talked with about 25, answering technical questions about the law governing payment of jobless benefits.

"I tried to answer all the questions they asked," he said.

Don Rothenberg, an officer of the organization, said the delegation may sit on the statehouse steps today.

Miners Get Food

(Continued from Page One) 35-cent tonnage royalty for the welfare fund for miners' pensions and other benefits in place of the present 20-cent royalty.

Curbs For Lewis

Senator Robertson (D-Va.) called today for speedy enactment of a bill which he said would curb the "monopolistic powers" of John L. Lewis.

The measure would make labor unions subject to the anti-trust laws if they restrained trade unreasonably in industries affecting the national health and safety.

CHICAGO, Feb. 16.—(AP)—A slightly easier trend developed in grains on the Board of Trade today. New crop wheat deliveries displayed the most weakness, thereby reversing the situation in yesterday's market.

Two exceptions to the general tone were rye and corn. The former souped on short covering following disclosure of sales of cash rye to Portugal. Rye advanced in active dealings, partly in sympathy with a gain for cottonseed oil in New York.

Inability of major grains to get anywhere was attributed in part to uncertainty created by the government's new policy on export sales of course grains, first made known to the trade yesterday.

prices for airline stocks contrasted NEW YORK, Feb. 16.—(AP)—Rising with a broad decline in the balance of the market today.

Much of the selling pressure was centered on the radio-television group where losses ran to a point of 50. Declines elsewhere were mostly fractional, a few topping a point.

Heavy trading in airline issues accompanied gains of around 1/2 point. Demand was stimulated by the excellent 1949 earnings report of American Airlines.

City Planning For Future Important

Members of the Washington C. H. City Council should be commended for starting to make plans for the expansion of the City Building.

Their action, taken at the last meeting of the group, is indicative of what can be done to plan for future needs.

This community has grown steadily and increased room is needed for departments which find that they have more work to do to serve its citizens.

The city is fortunate to have space to expand. It will be able to increase its facilities without the burden of building a completely new structure.

The old Mark Laundry north of the fire department is owned by the city. The fire department will benefit by the inclusion of this space within that allotted to the department as well as an addition in the rear of the City Building.

Tentative plans have been made to construct modern jail facilities in the rear of the City Building. All the city's departments would benefit from additional space.

By having more room in which to work employees of the city will be able to render service to residents with greater ease.

While the additions to the City Building will help solve some of the present problems of city departments, the councilmen feel that the expansion will meet future requirements.

This looking to the future-meeting problems before they meet you—is a wise policy for this city.

This can readily be realized if you've ever seen a community which has not caught up with its growth. City administrators are crowded into dingy upstairs rooms; sewers are inadequate; streets are in a crumbling condition and there is a feeling that there's too much to fix up so why start now.

Councilmen have seen a street improvement program almost through to the end here.

If they can get the voters of the community to vote a bond issue to finance the expansion project at the City Building, they will have made another forward step.

There are other areas in the city administration in which the city will find need for further planning. For instance something needs to be done in the matter of evolving a master plan, which would include such things as ideal locations for future factory expansion, residential areas, extended sewer lines, and the inclusion of future locations for schools.

Thinking Children

That the success of a society founded on the importance of the individual depends in the last analysis on the training of its children was the theory back of the speech made by Dr. Elvin C. Stakman of the University of Minnesota at a meeting of the American Association for the Advancement of Science in New York recently.

"The job of society, of parents and schools is the evolution of an individual who knows how to find out for himself, who seeks the truth before he acts," said Dr. Stakman. He believes the youngest children can be taught how to conduct a scientific experiment which aims at discovery of the facts about a case rather than at proving or disproving a theory. A child's natural inquisitiveness should be encouraged rather than stifled, he said.

Another point which might be brought out concerns the difference between facts and their significance. It is doubtful whether a child can grasp this distinction, but, given the attitude of scientific inquiry and the habit of carefully sifting facts, he is likely to develop into the sort of adult who, in possession of a set of provable facts, can see above and beyond them to the ultimate truth which they indicate.

You Can't Sell a City in the Rain

By Hal Boyle

BALTIMORE—(AP)—The traveling salesman stood at his hotel window and looked out at Baltimore in the rain.

"Why is it all cities look alike in the rain?" he thought. "Look out at any city when it rains, and where are you—Baltimore? St. Louis? Milwaukee? Boston? Denver? Munich or London? They're all the same."

He glanced down at the street, where the water had collected in pools, making a sordid rosary.

"And the people," he thought, "they all look the same. Rain does it to them, too."

The salesman went back and scribbled a note to his boss.

"Old Cradage is still with us, Bob," he wrote. "He gave me a lot of trouble, but he finally ended up by giving us his usual order. So I guess we won't have to close the plant yet. Things are going so well, I think I'll make the other two stops you mentioned before I pull back in."

That would make his home office happy, he knew. But about that other thing—the letter sent along some flowers, he thought.

"Yes, a dozen—the long-stemmed ones," he said. "And a card, saying: 'Happy Anniversary from the heart away to the heart at home. See you in three days.'"

He hung up the phone and thought, "maybe that'll sound too mushy to her. You never can tell what they'll think. But if I'd just said, 'Happy Anniversary, love'—well, she might..."

The salesman left the thought unfinished. He looked out the window again.

"Rainy days, rainy days," he mused. "Thank God, I don't have to try to sell rainy days to people."

Across the way, in the cornice of a weathered building, he saw two pigeons huddled, feather to feather, out of the rain's reach.

"I wonder," he thought, "if homing pigeons still have to go on delivering messages after young?"

The salesman turned away.

"I'll bet if they do, their wives don't understand why," he said out loud.

And he began to pack his grip. Pittsburgh tomorrow. Rain or shine.

Spies Are Saved by Time Limit

By George E. Sokolsky

A point to note is that a fellow can commit and act of treachery against the United States, wait three years, announce his crimes, and nothing can be done about it. The statute of limitations shall have run and he is safe. This is the open season for ex-spies announcing their crimes. There is even money in such confessions.

That is why former spies like Whittaker Chambers, Henry Julian Wadsworth, and Mrs. Hede Massing can tell their stories in safety. That is why Alger Hiss could only be held for perjury.

That is why some of them are only held in contempt of a Congressional committee. The statute of limitations gives them a wonderful blanket protection for the crimes they actually committed.

The Hiss case, as important as it is, must reopen the question of the statute of limitations in such crimes. Actually, there ought to be no statute of limitations in crimes involving treason, espionage, treachery. There is no statute of limitations for murder. And while a murder may involve only one person, such treachery as the theft of the A-bomb involves all of us.

I want to quote from "A factual review of the Whittaker Chambers-Alger Hiss controversy," by William Marshall Bullitt, a distinguished lawyer and trustee of the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace, of which Alger Hiss was president.

"On or about August 29, 1939, Chambers and (Isaac Don) Levine dined with Mr. (A. A.) Berle at the latter's Washington residence.

Chambers revealed to Berle his whole story of the communist 'underground' in Washington, and particularly mentioned the names of Alger Hiss, Donald Hiss, Nathan Witt and Lee Pressman.

"Mr. Berle was both worried and disturbed, because he believed that Chambers was telling the truth as he saw it." Berle at once took the following precautionary steps: (I) Established very close relations between the state department and the FBI; (II) Organized a special section in the state department to follow up on communist activities; (III) Arranged to have a weekly liaison meeting with the FBI for the exchange of information; (IV) Worked with the department of justice in passing needed legislation for the government's protection; and (V) Twice checked with Dean Acheson, assistant secretary of state, who had Alger Hiss as his executive assistant; and Acheson vouched for both the Hisses absolutely.

"Sometime later, Levine conveyed the Chambers revelations to William C. Bullitt, then ambassador to France, and to Lloyd (he must mean Loy-G. E. S.) Henderson, in charge of the Russian section of the state department.

Diet and Health Two Main Causes For Pain In Arm

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

A GREAT many people suffer from a group of symptoms which seem chiefly to affect the arm, causing pain, tingling and numbness. While this type of discomfort can be brought on by a variety of causes, in most instances it is due to one of two groups of conditions.

The first is arthritis or inflammation of the joints in the upper part of the spine. In this condition there is an overgrowth of bone, and movements of the neck may cause the nerves coming from the spinal cord to be stretched or they may rub over the projecting pieces of bone. In either case, pain in the arm develops.

Complete Rest

The treatment in early cases consists in rest and avoidance of strain on the affected joints. In severe cases, complete rest in bed may be necessary. Later on it may be advisable to wear a plaster or leather collar to support the neck. This collar is worn for three months after the symptoms have all disappeared.

Operative treatment is only employed in the most severe cases which do not respond to the more conservative measures.

In late cases, manipulation or movement of the joints with the patient under an anesthetic may give temporary relief and sometimes may even result in permanent cure of the symptoms.

Nerve Roots

The second cause of the pain in the arm is pressure on the nerve roots due to the growth of an extra rib known as a cervical rib. It may also be due to pressure by a muscle in the neck known as the scalenus anticus muscle. Poor posture often occurs in persons of middle age or older which allows pressure on these nerves.

In these cases, also, the patient should be advised to avoid carrying heavy weights. The active use of the arm should be split up into short periods. When resting, the arm should be supported as on the arm of a chair. If the symptoms are severe, a sling may be employed. Improvement of the posture by exercise may be helpful.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

H. K.: Would a quart of buttermilk a day be good for stomach ulcers?

Answer: I know of no evidence that buttermilk is of any value in the treatment of stomach ulcers. This condition should be treated by a physician who will outline the proper diet, together with any medicines which will be of any help to you.

Income Tax Explanations

By JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON, Feb. 16—(P)—Be sure, in filing your 1949 income tax return, that you're getting all the deductions you're entitled to.

These deductions for personal expenses — like hospital bills and charitable contributions — are subtracted from your income before what's left of it can be taxed.

You have no problem if your income was under $5,000 and your deductible expenses were less than 10 per cent of your income.

You'd make your return on form 1040-A or the 1040 short form. Everyone using either of these forms automatically is allowed — without claiming or itemizing — a deduction of about 10 per cent.

That deduction already is taken care of in the tax table used to tell the tax of anyone using either of those two forms. But — were more than 10 per cent, you'll lose money by using form 1040-A or the 1040 short form. Use the 1040 long form.

No one using form 1040-A or the 1040 short form gets, or can claim, any more than the approximately 10 per cent deduction explained above.

By using the 1040 long form — if your income was under $5,000 but your deductions more than 10 per cent of it — you can claim your deductible expenses in full. True, in such a case you'll have to itemize your deductions on the 1040 long form to prove you had them, but you can claim them in full.

If your income was $5,000 or more, you can use only the 1040 long form, where you can still choose between a "standard deduction" and claiming your actual deductions in full.

A single taxpayer in this group is allowed a standard deduction — That is, he doesn't have to itemize or prove anything — of 10 per cent of his income up to a limit of $1,000 in deductions.

He just takes that 10 per cent as rightfully due him, knocking 10 per cent off his income before applying the tax to what's left. Remember: those using the 1040 long form must figure out their own tax.

He doesn't have to itemize his deductions unless they're more than 10 per cent. But then, by itemizing, he can claim them to the full extent allowed by law.

Examples: Smith's income was $5,200. He takes, without itemizing, a standard 10 per cent deduction, or $520. Brown's income was $10,000. He takes the full 10 per cent deduction allowed by law, without itemizing, or $1,000.

But what about Jones whose income was maybe $10,000 or maybe even $30,000? He still can claim, without itemizing, only 10 per cent up to a limit of $1,000, no matter how much above $10,000 his income was. So Jones' total deduction, without itemizing, even though his income was $30,000, can be no more than $1,000.

If Jones' deductions actually ran to more than 10 per cent of his income — and this is true of anyone with over — $5,000 income — he can claim them in full but then he'll have to itemize them.

It's different with a married couple whose income was $5,000 or more. If they file a joint return on the 1040 long form, even though the wife has no income, they get a standard deduction — just like the unmarried man — of 10 per cent up to a limit of $1,000, without itemizing.

But if one of them files separately, or both file separately there's a limit of $500 in deductions on the return filed, example:

Chest Clinic Here Tuesday

Dr. Wetterauer of Mt. Logan In Charge

The first tuberculosis chest clinic of 1950 will be held at the Health Department in the Court House here next Tuesday afternoon.

The Fayette County Tuberculosis and Health Association is bringing Dr. Damon E. Wetterauer, chest specialist and medical director of the Mt. Logan Sanatorium, here to conduct the examinations.

According to the health commissioner, Dr. Gordon E. Savage, the clinic will open about 1:30 P. M. and a total of between 20 and 25 are expected to take advantage of it.

Those attending the clinic are usually referred to it by their physicians and are of two types: "contacts" and "suspects."

The "contacts" are those cases who have come into contact with a person who has tuberculosis or had tuberculosis at the time of contact. They are advised to attend the clinic every three months.

Smith had $9,000 income, his wife had none, they file jointly. They get the standard 10 per cent deduction of $900, without itemizing.

But suppose this same Smith — with $9,000 income and a wife who had no income — files a return alone because his wife fails to file jointly with him.

In that case his standard deduction is only $500. The Smiths have lost on that deal. And — if he files alone and his deductions actually were more than $500, he'd have to itemize them all to prove he has them, although he could claim them all.

Snake Cultist Defies Police

Preacher Refuses To Give Up 'Poison'

CANTON, Feb. 16—(AP)—Howard Wade, West Virginia snake cultist who has taken over a vacant neighborhood theater in which to conduct religious services, has refused to surrender some of his "props" to police.

Two plain clothesmen and a juvenile court officer attended his services Tuesday night. At the conclusion, they asked him to surrender voluntarily a bottle from which he allegedly drank strychnine to show that faith would save him "from a sinner's death." Police Chief James Quilligan reported. They said they wanted to have a chemical analysis made.

Chief Quilligan said Wade refused the request, saying they would have to take the bottle away forcibly if they wanted it. During the service he and two assistants, who play a guitar and accordion, handled two 34-inch copperhead snakes which they claim still have their fangs.

Approximately 50 children, some accompanied by parents, were in the audience, Chief Quilligan said. The assistants, Uriah Bing Herdman and his son, Jasper Lee Herdman, stomped feet, clapped hands and spasmodically shouted "hallelujah, amen," and "thank you, Lord," as the preacher handled the snakes or took a drink of "strychnine."

Wade and his wife and three children broke into the news here last week when complaints were received on snake rituals they were conducting in their trailer home at a camp near here. Wade claims he plans to add rattlesnakes to the act soon.

Chief Quilligan said today he has been unable to find any law saying it is illegal to keep snakes. He is continuing his check into what can be done to stop the so-called drinking of "strychnine" before an audience comprised of an unusually large number of children, he said.

$2500 Bond Fixed For Thief Suspect

Francis M. Cox, a farmer from Samantha, who was caught in a neighbor's chicken house, near Samantha, (Highland County) has been placed under $2,500 bond until the grand jury investigates his case.

Cox, when captured by Golden D. Jacobs, who had laid a trap for a chicken thief, said he was just playing a joke on Jacobs' son. Jacobs could see no humor in the situation inasmuch as two coffee sacks for carrying off chickens were found in the chicken house.

He is facing three charges. They include entering premises with intent to carry away poultry, forcibly breaking and entering a building in the night season with intent to steal property and breaking and entering an inhabited dwelling house in the night with intent to steal.

The first bond was $500 and $1,000 each for the other two offenses.

Bride-To-Be Is Honored At Shower

Miss Clara Belle Robinson and Miss Christine Switzer complimented Miss Mary Jane Hyer, bride-elect of Mr. Robert Eugene Miller, with a miscellaneous shower at the Robinson home, on Wednesday evening.

A valentine motif was used for the pretty party and "hearts" were played, affording pleasant entertainment with prizes awarded Mrs. Ted Irvin, who was the holder of high score, Mrs. Edwin Swartz, second and Miss Hyer, low.

Following the round of games the guests were invited to the dining room where gifts for the bride-to-be had been placed on the lace covered dining table. A large white "sprinkler" tied with red bows was used as the centerpiece and held a bouquet of beautiful red roses and white mums. Tall red tapers in crystal holders tied with white bows were used at either end of the table and with the prettily wrapped packages made an attractive table. The honoree expressed her appreciation for each lovely gift as she opened it.

Small tables centered with red lighted candles tied with small white bows were used to serve the refreshments which also carried out the valentine suggestions.

Those included in the enjoyable event were Mrs. Walter Miller and Mrs. Russell Miller of Yellow Springs; Mrs. Robert Hooffstetter of Columbus, Mrs. Louise Eckle, Mrs. Ted Irvin, Mrs. Edwin Swartz, Miss Mary Sue Belles, Mrs. Harriett Jenkins, Miss Mary Jenkins, Miss June Trout, Miss Sarah Holdsworth, Miss Juanita Tigner, Miss Vivian Strong, Mrs. Don Belles, Mrs. Esta Swartz, Miss Rosemary Swartz, Miss Alice Davis, Mrs. Jean Lanum, Mrs. Ralph Marchant, Mrs. Frank Creamer, Mrs. Pauline Ryan, Mrs. Chan Hyer, Mrs. Robert Miller, Mrs. George Robinson, Jr., Mrs. Paul Thornhill, Miss Lois Peacock, Mrs. Norman Ashbaugh, Mrs. Ralph Hyer, Miss Bertha Switzer, Mrs. Walter Marshall and Mrs. Robert Maust.

Case Children

Entertain at Valentine Party

Hannah and Nelly Maude Case young daughters of Mr. and Mrs. John P. Case entertained preschool members of St. Andrew's Church, School, and a few other small friends on Tuesday afternoon with a Valentine party. The home throughout was radiant with St. Valentine suggestions and games and contests built around the theme were enjoyed by the children who later exchanged gay colored Valentines from a decorated Valentine box. Refreshments were served at tables decorated in red and white, and Mrs. Case was assisted in the hospitalities by her mother Mrs. Karl J. Kay, Mrs. Charles Sheridan and Mrs. Edwin Wagner.

Small guests included in the invitations were: Tommy, Gladys and Betsy Spettigue, Bruce Core, Connie and Grey Sheridan, Randy and Nathan Bolton, Damon and Grechen Baker, Sandra Wagner, Jane Bolton, Billie Halliday, Joda Campbell, Madeline and Mary Ellen Hays, Electa and Bobby Brubaker.

Miss Mayme Kruskamp has returned from a visit with Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hooffstetter, in Columbus, and relatives in Marion.

Bloomington WSCS Meets At Elliott Home

Mrs. Joe Elliott was hostess on Tuesday afternoon to the members of the Bloomington WSCS at her home in Bloomington. The opening devotionals were led by Mrs. Halsey Ward using as her theme "Book of Books". Her scripture reading was taken from Matthew, and the closing song "We've a Story To Tell To The Nations." The program was in charge of Mrs. John Gibeau and was built around the topic "Can You Read?" She presented members in readings on the subject and the first was "The De-frauded Millions" by Mrs. Roy Oswald, "New Responsibility of Millions" by Mrs. Walter Noble, "What People Should Read," Mrs. Glen Earl Davis Sr.; "The Best Book" Mrs. Guy Tucher; "Worrying" Mrs. Don Thornton.

The hymn, "The Churches One Foundation" and prayer by Mrs. Gibeau closed the program. Mrs. Fred Oswald, president conducted the business session, during which the secretary's report was read by Miss Olive Swope, and the treasurer's report by Mrs. Joseph Altemang.

The opening of the "Sunshine Basket" in the form of a traveling bank was opened and the proceeds netted a tidy sum to the treasury. Mrs. Guy Tucker who recently returned from Texas gave an interesting talk on Wesley Community Center which she visited at Houston Texas. Mrs. Allie Plummer read a letter from a missionary in China which also was interesting. The meeting was closed with prayer by Mrs. Tucker. During the social hour movies of the style show at the benefit party given by the Mothers' Circle recently were shown by Mrs. Frank Slager and dainty refreshments were served by Mrs. Elliott and her assisting hostesses, Mrs. Edgar McIntosh, Mrs. Halsey Ward, Mrs. Candace McCoy and Mrs. Lila Warner.

Mrs. Williams Is Hostess to Class Members

Mrs. Edward L. Williams extended the hospitality of her home on Tuesday evening for the regular meeting of the True Blue Class of the Grace Methodist Church.

Red and white carnations suggestive of the St. Valentine colors, in beautiful arrangements were admired by the members throughout the rooms.

The meeting was brought to order by the president Mrs. Paul Haines and Miss Frances Meriweather led in the opening devotionals.

She read the 11th Psalm, and the group sang, "All Hail The Power of Jesus' Name," accompanied at the piano by Miss Norma Dodd and the Lord's Prayer repeated in unison closed the period.

The usual reports were heard and accepted and articles of food brought by the members were assembled to be sent to the Greek girl who is being sponsored by the class.

The program was in charge of Miss Elizabeth Horney who presented Miss Jeanne Scholl in two beautifully rendered piano solos, Hungarian Etude No. 12—McDonald and a Polish Dance by Krentzlin.

Mrs. Frank Jackson was also presented and gave a paper "Duncan Hines—His Contribution To Your Vacation" which was greatly appreciated.

During the social hour dainty refreshments were served from a beautifully appointed table presided over by Mrs. Paul Haines. Hostesses for the evening assisting Mrs. Williams were Miss Elizabeth Horney, Miss Frances Meriweather, Mrs. Charles Crone, Mrs. Chester Clay, Mrs. Byron Tracey and Mrs. O. T. Winters.

Bride-To-Be Is Honored At Shower

Mrs. Alex Wackman entertained with a miscellaneous shower at the home of Mrs. Jeannette Lindsay, honoring Miss Freda Coldiron, bride-elect of Mr. Kenneth P. Ford.

The rooms throughout were bright and cheery with potted plants, arrangements of flowers, and other suggestions in keeping with the St. Valentine season.

The bride-elect's gifts were arranged on a lace cloth covered table, over which nosegays fashioned from sweet peas, fell in a shower from a silver sprinkling can over a miniature bride.

The nosegays were presented as favors to the guests and the bride-to-be received a corsage of Talisman roses.

As the honor guest opened the lovely gifts, each was responded to graciously.

Tempting refreshments were served by the hostess after a period of pleasant entertainment.

Invited guests included were: Mrs. Warner Taynor, Mrs. Earl Fisher, Mrs. P. J. Burke, Mrs. Donna Pollock, Miss Marie Melvin, Mrs. Dave Ankrom, Mrs. Clyde Smith, Miss Arlene Smith, Miss Wanda Coldiron, Mrs. Fred Coldiron, Mrs. W. B. Ford, Miss Leah Krebs, Mrs. Evelyn Gain, Mrs. Emerson Carter, Mrs. James Coldiron, Mrs. Claude Davis, Mrs. Oliver Baughn, Mrs. Thurman Coulter, Mrs. Hank Oyer, Mrs. Hazel Beatty, Mrs. Mary Jenkins, Mrs. Wendell Briggs, Miss Eileen Burnett, Mrs. Stella Burnett, Mrs. Fred Shoop, Mrs. J. Howard Ford, Mrs. David Ford, Mrs. Robert Ford, Mrs. Robert Campbell, Mrs. Thelma Roush, Miss Judith Wackman, Mrs. Mildred Wackman, Mrs. Ed Coil, Mrs. Harold Lindsay and Miss Melba McCoy.

singing of the National Anthem the Pledge of Allegiance to the flag, and the Lord's Prayer.

The secretary's report was given by Carol June Wilson and Janet Willis gave the treasurer's report.

A special prize was won by Doris Jean Sword and the "Surprise Package" brought by Doris Jean Sword went to Joan Willis.

Church Society Holds Meeting At Foster Home

The members of the Comrades of the Second Mile met at the home of Mrs. Howard Foster in Bloomington, for the regular monthly meeting, with Mrs. Donald King, as the assisting hostess.

Mrs. Edgar McFadden, president, presided over the meeting, opening with devotionals, in charge of Mrs. Arthur Engle, using as her topic "Meekness."

Several members participated in the responsive reading on the subject and this period closed with prayer by Mrs. John Glenn.

The usual reports were heard and accepted and Mrs. Guy Carter was welcomed as a new member of the society.

Other committee chairmen gave reports and this was followed with the program which was in charge of Mrs. Alice Cory.

Mrs. Cory introduced Mrs. Harry Elliott, who reviewed the book, "Abraham Lincoln in Illinois," in her inimitable manner to a most attentive and appreciative audience.

During the social hour, the hostesses served a tempting refreshment course, savoring out St. Valentine suggestions.

Mrs. Robert Angus was included as a guest.

Relatives To Attend Wedding in Dayton

The marriage of Miss Margaret Louise McFadden, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. F. McFadden, of Dayton, to Mr. Louis Robert Sacksteder, also of Dayton, will be an event of Saturday, February 18.

The ceremony will take place at 9:30 A. M. in the Holy Angel Catholic Church, Oakwood, Dayton, and the breakfast and reception will follow immediately at Suttmillers.

The bride is a niece of Mrs. Robert Teevens, who with Mr. Teevens and Mrs. Stanley Hagerty will be guests at the wedding and reception.

Miss Stackhouse Completes Plans For Her Wedding

Miss Mary Jean Stackhouse, has completed plans for her wedding to Mr. Robert E. Black which will be an event of Sunday February 19 in the Sugar Grove Church.

Rev. E. E. Frazier will officiate at the double ring ceremony at three-thirty o'clock in the afternoon.

A quarter hour of nuptial music will precede the wedding presented by Mrs. Damon Merritt at the piano.

Miss Stackhouse has asked her sister Miss Joan Stackhouse to be her maid of honor and only be attended by his brother Mr. Frank Black as best man.

Love Must Be Blind American Woman Would Renounce U.S.

BERLIN, Feb. 16.—(AP)—Cecile Von Goetz, ousted American secretary, and a penniless young German had planned to "live forever" in Germany's Soviet zone until Red police frightened them, the youth's aunt said today.

"Ah, they were so in love," said the aunt, a Mrs. Heimbeck of her nephew Kurt Tackenberg, 21, and his 26-year-old girl friend from Washington, D. C.

Cecile returned to Washington last night, after the U. S. Army had escorted her out of Berlin for overstaying her residence permit. Occupation officials said she and Kurt had spent more than a month in the Soviet zone.

(Cecile told reporters in Washington she will renounce her U. S. citizenship "if the American government does not permit me to return to Germany.")

Harness Racing Program Set For Fair Here Next Summer

A four-day harness horse racing program, with purses totalling $12,600, has been arranged for next July's Fayette County Fair.

The headline event is the "Blue Grass of Ohio" stake for 15 pacers. It carries a purse of $1,200 and is the first race on the Friday afternoon card.

Made into an annual feature for the Fayette County Fair, the "Blue Grass of Ohio" stake is an early closing event. Indications, from inquiries which already have come in, are that it will draw some of the top flight pacers in this section.

Seven of the 16 events are stakes and the remainder are what are known as overnight races. Six of the stakes carry purses of $1,000. The other is the $1,200 "Blue Grass of Ohio."

The overnight races are all for $600 purses.

Two-dash Plan

All of the races are to be on the two-dash plan. The old three-heat plan of racing was abandoned here four years ago. This was one of the first places in Ohio for the revolutionary departure from tradition.

Races for two-year-old trotters and pacers and three-year-old trotters and pacers, all four $1,000 stakes, have been given prominent places on the program again this year.

The classes for the overnight races were selected with a view to carding those with greatest popular appeal by drawing the best of horses, the committee said.

The speed committee, which is headed by George E. Steen, always has counted on its program drawing most of the many horses in training here. This year is expected to be no exception.

Steen has said that the committee is convinced that horses trained here and owned in the community hold greatest interest among Fair race crowds here.

Entry Blanks Out

Entry blanks (with the full program printed on the backs of them) have been sent to trainers and owners over a wide area by Fair Secretary Frank E. Ellis. Indications are that many familiar faces will be here again next summer, he said. Most of the drivers who have been coming to the Fair here also are expected to come back along with some new ones.

Entries for the early closing stakes close March 1. An entry fee amounting to 2 per cent of the purse is payable when the entry is made. Another 1 per cent is payable at 10 A. M. the day before the race when positions are drawn.

In the overnight races, the 3 per cent entry fee is payable at 10 A. M. the day before the race.

Purses are to be divided on a 45, 25, 15, 10 and 5 percentage basis.

United States Trotting Association will govern the racing in general. The committee however, served notice that it reserved the right to declare off any event not filling satisfactorily and to reject any entry or to change the order of the program.

The mobile starting gate is to be used again this year and equipment is to be installed for making photos of the close finishes.

There will be mutual betting and auction pools again, too.

Tax Levy Predicted To Pay Vet Bonus

COLUMBUS, Feb. 16—(AP)—A state-wide levy on all taxable property to help pay off World War II veterans bonus bonds appears certain for next year.

C. Emory Glander, state tax commissioner, said the levy will be necessary unless the state finds more surplus money than seems likely now.

The bonds were to be financed by two methods, under the constitutional amendment authorizing them. Every month for 15 years, $1,000,000 was to be taken from state revenue, beginning in January of 1949. At the end of 15 years this would amount to $180,000,000. The remainder, about $32,500,000, was to be raised by a state-wide levy on taxable property.

Twice the general assembly has appropriated surplus funds to keep up payments on bonds and to stave off the levy, Glander said.

Apprenticeship Is Modernized

Program in Ohio Has Five Objectives

COLUMBUS, Feb. 16 — (AP) — Apprenticeship training—subject of a two-day conference opening here today—is no longer the rigorous grind it was in the days of Benjamin Franklin.

There are no more “runaway apprentices,” escaping from tyrannical employers. No longer do apprentices work 12 to 15 hours a day and get paid starvation wages. In Ohio, apprenticeship training is at its highest level in history. The buckeye state is recognized as a leader in the nation in the number and quality of its programs.

Federal and state officials, industry and labor feel there is room for improvement, however. The first annual Ohio apprenticeship conference starting today is designed to give these officials a chance to talk over existing programs and plan improvements.

Officials of the Department of Labor's Bureau of Apprenticeship hope the conference will stimulate a continued interest in apprentice training.

Phenomenal Growth

They point to the phenomenal growth of apprenticeship programs in Ohio and other states since the end of World War II, a growth they attribute to the veterans training program which is now starting to decline.

For example on Jan. 1, 1947, there were 9,629 Ohio business establishments with 5,151 apprentices in registered programs. On Jan. 1, 1950, there were nearly 19,000 business firms participating and 17,029 apprentices.

The keystone of apprentice training in Ohio is the Ohio apprenticeship council. Working closely with the Bureau of Apprenticeship, labor unions, employers and the State Department of Industrial Relations, the council serves as the clearing house for records and information concerning all apprentices in approved programs.

An approved training program is one that has been registered with the council. These programs are drawn up by local apprenticeship training councils consisting of management, trade and union representatives.

Five Main Objectives

The Bureau of Apprenticeship tries to get all apprentices into registered programs. It regards registration as an indispensable part of its national program because it is designed to do these things:

(1) Safeguard the interests of the apprentice and insure that his training conforms with local, state and national standards for the trade.

(2) Make possible an inventory of the number of apprentices in training.

(3) Provide a record against which the apprentice and future employers can check on a worker's training and qualifications.

(4) Serve as a check against hiring of an apprentice who is under contract to another employer, or against hiring an apprentice without giving adequate credit for previous experience.

(5) Provide the basis for issuance by the state council of a certificate of completion of apprenticeship.

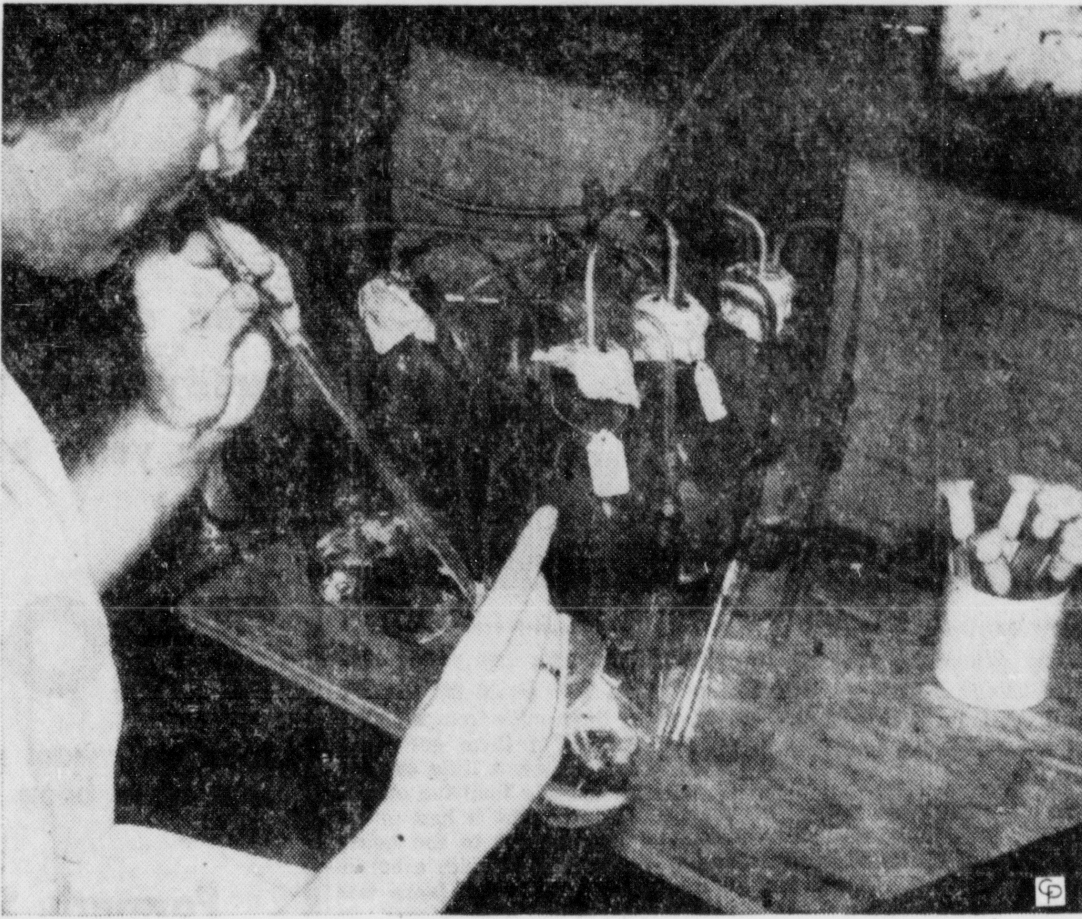

Every apprentice in a registered program must sign an agreement with his employer which states the length of the apprenticeship, the schedule of work to be followed, the wage scale and related classroom instruction which must be taken.

Agreement Standards

These agreements are based on standards set by local joint trade acceptable to the state council, the Bureau of Apprenticeship and generally throughout any industry.

EXPERIMENTS MAY PROVE THAT WOOD-ROT FUNGI CAN BE UTILIZED IN STOCK FEED

A laboratory technician forces air into flask in which fungi are

By LORNE S. WADDELL

Central Press Correspondent

SYRACUSE, N. Y. — Thiamin, the Vitamin B1 essential for human life, is a vital food for fungi and appears to hold part of the answer to the question of what makes your porch floors rot and your trees decay.

Dr. Marshall W. Jennison at Syracuse university here is raising 36 different species of fungus in his laboratory to determine the vitamins they require for life and how they utilize these necessary growth factors. The organisms responsible for wood rotting have had a variety of diets in the flasks and bottles lining the walls of his tiny lab.

While much previous research into the prevention of wood rotting has been conducted by chemists, Professor Jennison is attacking the problem from the viewpoint of the bacteriologist. He believes he must know how the fungi live before a method can be developed for killing them.

The Office of Naval Research, which granted him funds for fundamental studies in the field, is interested in the prevention of wood decay, but the professor's own interests go farther.

DR. JENNISON seeks to determine the chemical products of wood destruction by the various fungi. He wants to produce such substances on a large scale from waste cellulose and learn, for example, whether animal feeds can be produced economically through the partial digestion of cellulose waste materials by fungi.

Success of his fundamental research in the physiology of fungi may enable science to find practical uses for millions of tons of organic materials such as sawdust, peanut shells, pea vines, corn cobs and asparagus stalks.

is one that requires two years or more to learn. It must be an occupation that customarily has been learned through training on the job; that involves development of a broad enough skill to be applicable in like jobs throughout an industry, and that requires at least 144 hours a year of classroom instruction in addition to work experience.

Examples of apprenticeable occupations include:

Airplane mechanic, baker, bricklayer, cabinetmaker, carpenter, electrician, engraver, foundryman, glass blower, ironworker, jeweler, lithographer, optical technician, painter, patternmaker, photo-engraver, plasterer, pottery worker, printer, stonemason, tailor, tool and die maker, upholsterer and watchmaker.

Specifically excluded for apprentice training by the Bureau of Apprenticeship are selling, retailing, managerial occupations, clerical duties, professional or semi-professional occupations and agricultural jobs.

The length of training before an apprentice may become a journeyman—a full-fledged worker—varies from two years, in the case of many trades, to seven years for die sinkers.

Propaganda Is Main Objective Of Russia's Red Newspapers

By TOM WHITNEY

MOSCOW — Soviet newspapers are not much like American papers. It is difficult to find any resemblance between any leading American newspaper and a leading Soviet paper other than the fact that they appear every day and deal with current events and issues.

Aside from the obvious ideological differences, aside from differences in the editorial handling of news, there are very great physical differences and a fundamental difference in respective concepts of what “news” is.

Soviet papers universally consist of four pages. Only when an important congress or conference or a similar meeting is going on do Pravda and Izvestia insert an extra middle sheet in order to report the speeches and reports.

As a general rule almost all of this space is devoted to news and articles and practically none to advertising. The exception to this is that local papers such as Evening Moscow every other day or so devote from half a page to a whole page to advertising and notices.

The lead editorial is always printed on the left hand side of the front page in two columns. Rarely is it on a foreign affairs subject. Almost always it is on some internal theme such as the necessity for getting in the harvest and making grain deliveries to the state on time.

The central columns of the front page are frequently devoted to letters to Stalin from workers, farmers and officials reporting accomplishment of plans or promises or making promises of accomplishments.

Photos rarely appear on front pages, except for some celebration attended by Soviet leaders. And on official holidays throughout the year a large portrait of Stalin is usually carried in the upper right hand corner of the front page with the order of the day beneath.

The front page also carries announcements of meetings of Stalin with foreign dignitaries and officials and official decrees of the Presidium of the Supreme Soviet, often awarding medals, orders and other official honors to soviet citizens.

As a rule at least the right hand column of the front page is devoted

The Record-Herald Thursday, Feb. 16, 1950 9
Washington C. H., Ohio

to brief news items reporting economic and cultural developments in the USSR or in Poland, Czechoslovakia, Bulgaria, Albania, Romania and Hungary.

These news items continue on to the second page but on this page there frequently is a column of letters to the editor, many of them containing criticism. Some may appear on this page or the third page reviews of books and plays and motion pictures.

On the second page the right hand upper corner is reserved for official statements of the Ministry of Foreign Affairs.

The third page resembles the second page except that much of it is usually devoted to foreign affairs, which also usually takes up all of the last or fourth page. The back page also usually contains a list of theatrical performances and perhaps a paid advertisement or two.

Few Big Headlines

Soviet papers use large headlines sparingly. The ordinary headline is small and merely furnishes a ready guide to the reader without endeavoring to attract his attention.

Soviet papers have political cartoons occasionally but they do not have a comics page or comic strips. They cover major sports events quite briefly. For the sports fan there is a special paper, Soviet Sports.

Crime is covered rarely. Local papers report sentences as warnings to would-be imitators. They are never played up.

No Soviet paper has any equivalent of the society page.

$79 Problem Solved!

Heart Foundation Campaign Gets Money
But Not Until After Some Turmoil

Well, the big $79 problem has been solved...and the Heart Foundation campaign here is just that much better off today than it was yesterday.

After the Fayette County Swine Breeders and Feeders Association banquet in the American Legion Hall here Monday night, the table decorations were auctioned off. The bids came fast and were of generous proportions when it was announced that the proceeds were to go to the Heart Foundation.

When it was all over, there was $79 in the pot and the flowers had been carried off to brighten many a sick room.

Wednesday afternoon, a call came into the Record-Herald office from Mrs. Roy Baughn. Her husband is the secretary-treasurer of the Swine Breeders and Feeders Association and she wanted to know "who is the chairman of the Heart Foundation campaign here now."

"We've got $79 for the heart campaign," Mrs. Baughn said "and we don't know to whom we should give it...yes, it came from sales of the table decorations after the banquet Monday night."

Turmoil Stirred Up

Mrs. Baughn's question was repeated and then tossed all around the news room. Nobody could give her a definite answer, but everybody did come up with some good suggestions.

Reporters, all anxious to help contribute somebody's else's money to a good cause, got busy on the telephones.

Mrs. Baughn left her telephone number and was given a promise that the first one who located the campaign's head man would give her a call.

Before she hung up the receiver, Mrs. Baughn laughingly said there was no need for any fluster because the $79 was tucked away safely in the bank in the association's account and earmarked for the purpose for which it was intended.

Paydirt in the search was struck first in a call to Mrs. Marguerite Powell at the Welfare Department in the Court House. From her it was learned that she headed the campaign last year (the reporter who called her had forgotten that) as chairman of a Business and Professional Women's Club committee.

However, Mrs. Powell said, word had come from the state headquarters of the Heart Foundation this year for the BPW to take on the project with the kind of preparation the club wanted.

Chairman Located

But, she added, she thought the Lions Club had undertaken the campaign at the last minute and that Mac Dews was the chairman of the Committee in charge. A call to Dews brought verification.

The information was relayed to Mrs. Baughn. She said she would get in touch with Dews and turn over the Swine Breeders and Feeders Association check for $79 to him.

Postscript: Dews was not exactly optimistic over the outlook for the Heart Foundation fund-raising campaign here this year.

Like Mrs. Powell, Dews said the club had not had sufficient time to make preparations for it. He added that the state headquarters of the foundation had been warned not to expect too much. He said, however, the club had promised to put out 25 red plastic heart collection receptacles in places of business in this city.

That, Dews said, had been started. The first of the hearts were placed Tuesday and the rest of them will be in conspicuous spots before the end of the week, he said.

Dews said places where liquor is sold had been proven the most fertile. Few if any of them will be missed. And, he added, the proprietors always were cooperative in projects of this kind.

There will be plenty left to get them in most other kinds of stores, too.

Y-Teen Club Holds Meet at High School

Members of the Senior Y-Teen club at the Washington C. H. High School discussed the possibility of having an assembly for the student body and faculty in the near future at their last meeting, held Tuesday in the Little Theatre of the high school.

The get-together was a special Valentine Day meeting. It was called to order by Robin Newhouse, the president. Kay Morter led the discussions. Plans for the Y-Teen group to attend church were made. Refreshments were served.

Must File for Ohio Bonus in Next Few Months

July 1 Is Deadline
For Veterans and Next of Kin

All eligible Fayette County World War II veterans and all eligible next of kin of deceased Ohio World War II veterans who have not filed for the Ohio bonus were urged to do so today by Director Leslie G. Scrimger of the World War II Compensation Fund. The director emphasized that the constitutional amendment providing for the payment of the bonus, provides that all applications for compensation shall be made before July 1, 1950. This deadline cannot be changed except by vote of the electors.

The director said that the next of kin of many deceased veterans whose names appear on the casualty list of the Army and Navy have not filed for the Ohio bonus. Eligible next of kin are, surviving husband or wife, child or children or parents or parent in the order named. No other next of kin are eligible.

Director Scrimger further stated that through the month of January 1950, 723,468 living veterans and 30,250 next of kin of 21,400 deceased Ohio veterans were paid $228,925,447.51.

Applicants are again reminded to return all questionnaires received by them as soon as possible in order that the processing of their claims may be expedited.

"Claims received from living veterans now exceed three-quarters of a million," the director said. "We have received 751,217 applications from living veterans through January 31, 1950. Approximately 70 per cent of the applications received to date have been from Army veterans and approximately 30 per cent from navy veterans."

Through January 31, 1950, 22,275 claims have been disallowed. A large majority of these claims were disallowed because the applicant did not serve 90 days between December 7, 1941 and September 2, 1945, or did not meet the residence requirements.

Musical Program To Be Given Here

Variety marks the musical program that has been arranged for presentation at the First Presbyterian Church here Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock under the sponsorship of the Marguerite class.

The main part of the program is made up of religious and semi-classical numbers. It is to be preceded by organ and piano music by Mrs. Marian Gage and Mrs. Althea Case.

Among the soloists on the program are to be Miss Marian Osborn, Miss Elsa Paterson, Mrs. Olive Icenhower and Hal Summers.

Mrs. Betty Dunkle is to come here from Columbus as guest violinist. Mrs. Dunkle formerly lived at New Holland.

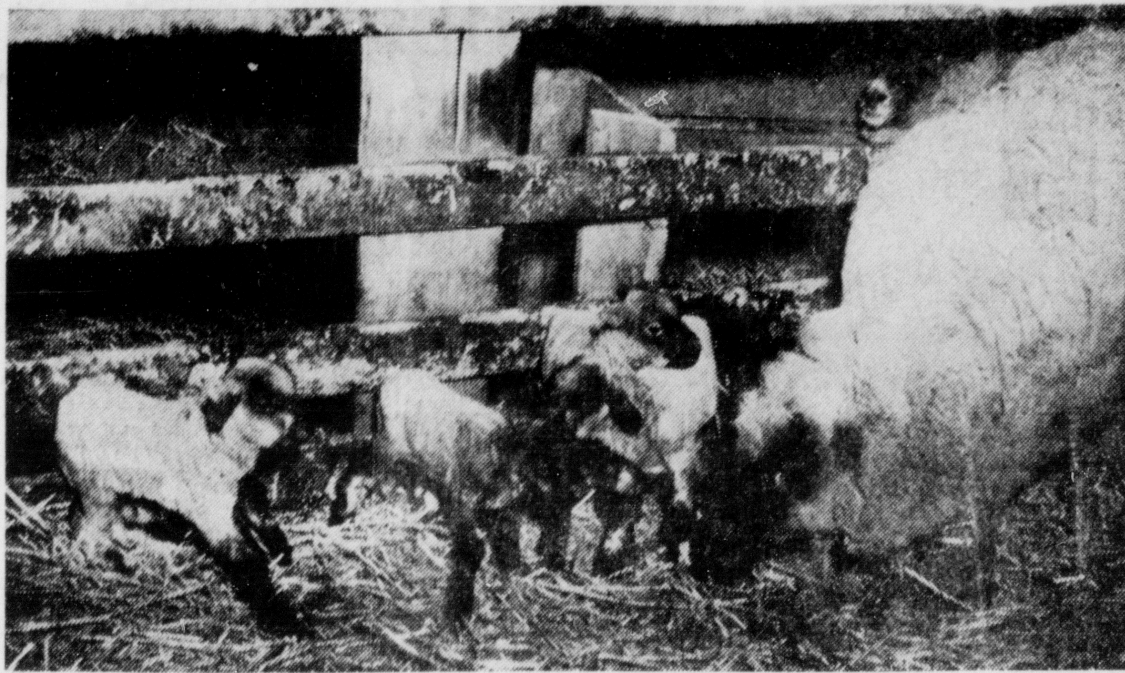

A male quartet and the WHS Ensemble under the direction of William Bowman, the city school vocal music supervisor, each are to contribute two numbers.

As has been the custom in preceding years, a silver offering will be received. The contributions are to be used by the Marguerite class for its charitable work.

Quad Lambs Born Near Good Hope

"QUADS" BORN TO EWE on Everett Baird farm.

There was some excitement last week around the Everett Baird farm, located about two and a half miles east of Good Hope.

The reason—quadruplet lambs were born to a four-year-old ewe in a barn on the Baird place. This is an uncommon event in the sheep world.

It was about 9 A. M. last Wednesday when the first of the lambs named "Eny" -- arrived. Baird said he was planning to call a veterinarian until the first one came.

He cancelled a call to the "vet", thinking everything was all over. Then the rest of the lambs started arriving. By 11 A. M. the last of the four was in this world.

One of the Baird boys termed the first of the lambs to arrive "Eny" and called the others "Meanie", "Minny" and "Mo". All were males.

The mother did not have enough milk for her young offspring, so Mrs. Baird got the job of giving them milk from a bottle. At first all of them got along nicely except one, a little smaller and more spindly than the others. Mrs. Baird thought it had pneumonia. She took it to the house and nursed it along with a bottle. By Monday the small lamb was much improved and looked as though it would grow up to be healthy.

Having lambs come in multiples is not a new thing on the Baird farm. There are three sets of lambs on the farm now.

(Record-Herald Photo)

Walter (Pud) Hall, proprietor of a West Main Street cafe, in Circleville, was fined $100 and costs for permitting the gambling. Others fined included C. E. Shaffer, Russell George, and Robert Hildebrand.

The raid was made by Sheriff Charles Radcliff, and Prosecuting Attorney Guy Cline, and seven other officers.

"We have known gambling existed in Circleville and we are putting a stop to it" Sheriff Radcliff stated.

Salvation Army Unit To Hold Annual Meeting

Tentative Date
Set for April 17
At Hotel Here

As the next visit of the Salvation Army truck to Fayette County on March 23 draws near, members of the County's Home Service Unit are receiving notices of the annual meeting to be held soon.

Salvation Army officers are pleased with the response of Fayette County to the appeal for household goods to help the unfortunate, said Miss Jean Everhart, who handles the SA calls from County Supt. of Schools W. J. Hilty's office in the courthouse.

Miss Everhart, whose phone number is 8361, said the Salvation Army truck will come here again on March 23 to collect unseizable clothing, household goods or other articles that can be used to put disaster-stricken families back on their feet again. Annual Meeting Soon

Supt. Hilty, chairman of the county home service unit, has been notifying members that the unit's annual dinner meeting has been tentatively set for Monday evening, April 17, at the Washington Coffee Shop.

Major John Fahey, division

secretary of the Cincinnati office, will meet with the group. The purpose of the meeting, said Hilty, is to review and summarize the past year's work and discuss future plans.

Some of the work carried out by the Home Service Unit in this county has included such noteworthy projects such as distributing Christmas baskets to the needy, providing cloths for needy schoolchildren and sending ten or twelve boys to the SA summer camp at Glendale near Cincinnati for a week.

Fire-Struck Families Aided

The county SA unit also provided money to help the Jeffersonville and Bloomington Lions and a sorority here hold Christmas parties for children. When a couple of families were burned out here last year, the unit contacted the Salvation Army's Columbus office, which helped refurbish the homes of these families.

Members of the Fayette County Home Service Unit of the Salvation Army are: Robert Olinger, secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Herbert Cokerill, Miss Gretchen Darlington, Thomas Christopher, Billie Wilson, Howard S. Harper and Hoy Simons.

Others in the unit are Paul Van Voorhis, Dr. Fred D. Woollard, Ellsworth Vannorsdall, Miss Hattie B. Pinkerton, George Pensyl, Alvin G. Little and Hilty.

There was more corn from previous crops carried over on October 1 in the United States than ever before in our agricultural history. At more than 800 million bushels, the total was more than six times greater than a year ago.

Who Is an Indian? Problem For Federal Bureau to Solve

These Kiowa school children eat lunch in their own school.

By KENNETH ALLEN

Central Press Correspondent
WASHINGTON—Though President Truman vetoed the measure, the 81st Congress' act in voting $88,570,000 to be spent during the next 10 years rehabilitating the Navajo and Hopi Indians, it has brought hope to Indians and those deeply concerned in their welfare.

The president vetoed the appropriation because of antagonism of Indians over water rights and court jurisdiction. There is also the question of possession and inheritance of personal property.

However, some observers, if they read the political signs correctly, foresee the $88,570,000 measure as the forerunner of similar grants of money for other—and equally needy—Indians.

Which raises the interesting question: Who is an Indian?

The Bureau of Indian Affairs is a little cagey about stamping the seal on any individual until it is perfectly clear to what purposes the classification is being put.

An American Indian is sometimes called Amer-Indian or Amer-Ind to keep his identity separate from an inhabitant of India. A full-blooded American Indian is a descendant of the original people of the new world who has no known mixture of other races. Now this seems perfectly clear.

Then, of course, there is the full-blood white American, who has no known Indian blood. Once again we have a clear cut situation.

But between these two poles are the descendants of those who inter-married with other races. They are regarded as mixed bloods. At one time this term was a term of derision. Now the term has been freed of its odium and is perfectly proper in describing those Americans of mixed ancestry.

Having sorted our citizens into three convenient classifications, we are ready to attack our problem of determining who is an Indian—Amer-Indian that is—only to learn that an Indian is and sometimes he isn't in the elegance of legalism.

"DETERMINATION of who is an Indian in the legal sense in any specific case depends upon the specific working of some treaty, statute or rule involved.

"The provisions vary greatly, and a person may be legally an Indian for some purposes and not for others. Many statutes just refer to Indians without defining the term." The Bureau of Indian Affairs has solemnly stated in an official publication.

For ready purposes of identification, then, the bureau sets up two qualifications. Firstly, if some of his ancestors lived in America before it was discovered by the white race (a biological Indian) and secondly, the community in which he lives regards him as an Indian.

The determination of who is an Indian is becoming increasingly important and increasingly difficult. Best estimates indicate that there were 800,000 Indians in the United States territory when America was discovered.

This number was reduced to 240,000 by 1887, but has been on the increase since and the number is now in excess of 400,000.

The death rate of Indians is higher than for whites, but it is being depressed each year and the Indians are the fastest-growing population segment in the United States. In 50 years it is expected that Indians will number 800,000.

WHEN laws mention an Indian, but do not specifically indicate who is an Indian, the courts have accepted the recognition by the tribe or society of Indians and the recognition of the United States as expressed in a treaty or statute. However, many such Indians have never signed a treaty, according to Theodore H. Haas, chief counsel of the bureau.

He points out that dark-skinned people have a greater need for protection than more fair individuals. Thus many appropriations made by Congress stipulate that a beneficiary must have at least one-fourth Indian ancestry. The Indian Bureau of Civil Service Commission also uses this standard.

Sometimes, when funds are not adequate to meet needs of all, the Indian Bureau grants preference to those with highest degree of Indian blood.

Dr. John R. Nichols, commissioner of the Indian Bureau, is moving in the direction of making Indians full citizens by schooling them to provide for their own support. This is an uphill fight, because funds are never adequate to school more than a fragment of the total population, which is always growing away from the bureau's resources.

Mission schools, although not too numerous, help. One trouble with both is that the bright Indian mind is favored. Dr. Nichols, himself an educator of high standing, would like to provide Indians with more trade studies geared to the land on which they live.

If he got all the schools he needed, there would be that problem again. An applicant for entrance to a federal Indian boarding school must prove he has at least one-fourth Indian blood.

Delicious Cabbage Salad

(Serves 4)

Chop 1 pound of crisp cabbage very fine and mix with 3 tablespoonsful of raisins and 2 apples, pared and cut in small pieces. Mix with a dressing of 2 mashed bananas moistened with 10 tablespoonsful of orange juice. Mayonnaise dressing may be used, if preferred.

Stuffed Celery Salad

Cream 1 tablespoonful of butter with cream cheese, add 3 minced olives, 1/4 teaspoonful of salt, 1/4 teaspoonful of paprika, and French Dressing to moisten.

ten. Prepare celery stalks and fill with the mixture. Cut in slices crosswise one-third inch thick and serve on lettuce. Top with mayonnaise and sprinkle with chopped nuts.

Huntington Salad

Wipe, peel and chill medium-size potatoes, then split in 5 vertical sections from the stem to the base. (Do not sever sections.) Mash a cream of cheese, moisten with French Dressing, pack into a timbale mold and chill thoroughly. Remove from the mold, cut in 1/2-inch slices, crosswise, and fit the slices into the slits in the potatoes. Serve in a nest of crisp lettuce leaves with French Dressing.

Pork and Vegetable Prices Up Slightly over Last Week

(By The Associated Press)
Pork and lamb prices advanced this week in most retail stores, but beef cuts were a little lower in many places.
Changes in poultry and egg prices were minor and well scattered.
In produce departments, spinach was bringing the highest prices in a long time. Insect infestation and weather troubles sharply reduced shipments from Texas where the bulk of the country's winter spinach is grown.
Broccoli, new cabbage and the best quality apples and tomatoes also were a little higher, while celery, eggplant, lettuce and—where available—Florida strawberries, were down slightly.
Hog Market Up
Some pork items increased as much as 10 cents a pound from last week-end. An agriculture department market reporter attributed the jump to higher hog prices in principal livestock markets—at Chicago this week hogs advanced to their highest quotation since last October as receipts fell off. The spokesman said farmers apparently were waiting for better prices and meantime turning cheap corn into more profitable meat.

The price-maker for a major food store chain in New York also said the advance was partly the result of retailers' intensive pork sales campaigns in recent weeks.
"We've all been hitting pork hard, and unit sales have climbed considerably. That's helped to trim down those earlier excessive supplies which pushed prices down. The same goes for chickens and eggs—you'll probably see their prices firming up a bit now."
The National Turkey Federation, a trade group, proposed that turkey be made a holiday dish for George Washington's birthday next week because of bountiful supplies this year. Although Americans consumed half again as much turkey per capita last year as the pre-war average, production was second-largest on record and cold-storage turkey stocks at the year's end were more than double the previous year's level.
Food Sales Off
The agriculture department reported retail food prices averaged about four percent lower in 1949 than the year before, and said they're expected to go somewhat lower again in 1950—but "no sharp decline is anticipated."

The report added that consumers spent 4 percent less of their income on food last year than in 1948 and more for services and durable goods like cars. The proportion spent for food is expected to be even smaller in 1950, but still more than before the war. Last year, the department said, more than 30 percent of total consumer disposable income went for food—in 1935-39, it was 28 percent.
The Dun & Bradstreet wholesale food price index this week climbed to $5.86, six cents above last week and highest since last August 16 when it was $5.89. A year ago the index was $5.76. It represents the total cost at wholesale of a pound each of 31 foods in general use.

Got Talent? Amateur Show Being Planned

Hey, youngster, can you sing or dance—or play the harmonica, piano, trumpet—or even a shoehorn?
If you're over a year old, you can try for the prizes offered in the third annual amateur show sponsored by the New Holland Intermediate Youth Fellowship.
The show will be staged in the New Holland high school auditorium at 7 P.M., March 24.
But the deadline for entries in the show is March 18.
There will be two classes. One will include youngsters between the ages of one and 12 years and the other will include all those 13 years of age or older.
To enter the show, write Homer Hill, route 2, New Holland, or phone him at New Holland 5656 and give him your name, age and what you want to do in the show.
Proceeds of the show will go into a fund to send children to summer camps to get Christian training, said Hill.
The past two affairs proved such successes and everyone had such a good time, that the amateur show is going to be an annual affair of the Methodist Youth Fellowship group, Hill declared.
Three prizes will be given in each of the two classes of the show, Hill said.
Asked about what type of entertainment was wanted, Hill said:

LEO GORCEY, HUNTZ HALL and The East Side Kids are coming to the Palace Theater Sunday and Monday in "Follow the Leader." A scene from the picture is shown above. Also on the bill will be "The Fighting Redhead," a Cinecolor movie starring Jim Bannon as "Red Ryder."

"BLONDIE HITS THE JACKPOT," the latest of the series of motion pictures featuring the characters of the celebrated comic strip, is to open at the State Theater here Sunday. Arthur Lake takes the role of "Dagwood" and Penny Singleton impersonates "Blondie." Also on the bill will be the thriller "Stampede," starring Rod Cameron, Johnny Mack Brown and Gale Storm.

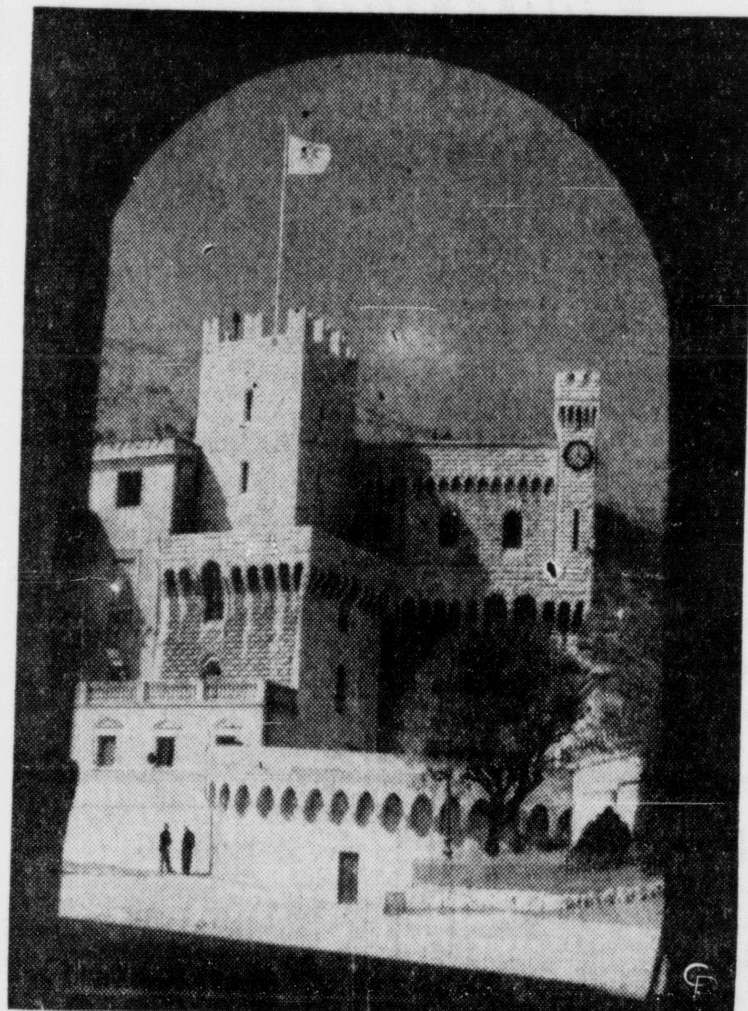

"Anything—song or dance numbers, instrumentals, skits, baton twirlers—whatever they want to do."
The U. S. Department of Agriculture says insects are the greatest single cause of forest destruction.

Smaller Nations of Europe Go After U. S. Tourist Dollar

Le Palais Princier is one of Monaco's favorite tourist attractions.

By SANFORD MARKEY
Central Press Correspondent
EUROPE'S three smallest countries, Andorra, Lichtenstein and Monaco, have tossed open their borders exposing their quaint, intriguing charms to the tourist who seeks different horizons in the post-war world.
Of the three, Monaco is perhaps the best known. Its gambling resorts and sun-baked Mediterranean-washed beaches have given the 370-acre principality international fame. Located along the Franco-Italian border, the little speck of land furnished many GI's with hours of relaxation and pleasure. Prior to the last war, Monaco cashed in on the world's wealthiest who participated at the gambling tables.
However, the war, and the austerity after-effects, put a crimp in Monaco's leading industry: the roulette tables. With wealthy Europeans reduced to a minimum, the croupiers haven't been raking in the pounds, dollars and francs as in the days of yore.

JUST RECENTLY, the country's new ruler, 26-year-old Prince Rainier, was reported to have asked Washington for assistance under the Marshall Plan since his land had been hit by a few stray war bombs. This, it is reported, made it eligible to receive funds to help finance its post-war recovery.
Meanwhile, the country has refurbished its hotels and changed its program of recreation to include other forms of gambling, such as craps, in an effort to entice more Americans to visit its casino. Concessions from the gambling tables continue to be the main source of the country's income.
At the same time, the treasury enjoys a neat profit from taxes on cigarettes and matches, and from the sale of postage stamps to foreign dealers.
Total receipts from the three main sources are sufficient to offset any need for an income tax on the country's 28,000 residents. Poverty and hunger are virtually unknown in Monaco.

THERE WERE no stray bombs that fell on either Andorra or Lichtenstein, but both dots on the continental map felt war's effects. Andorra, a pinpoint of green on Europe's map between France and Spain, has become the mecca of smugglers. Surrounded by the towering Pyrenees, Andorra covers 15 square miles of almost inaccessible countryside.
Yet, its two principal cities, Escalda and Andorra la Vella, which account for most of the principality's 5,000 residents, have begun an extensive program of hotel building to attract the tourist. Besides smuggling, the little country's wealth comes from two other sources: electricity and radio. In the stores of the capital city of Escalda, the tourist can find goods from all quarters of the world. Big American cars pass constantly from France through Andorra into Spain.

STOPPING in Escalda is a legal step to permit change of title, thus removing all custom barriers set up against permitting import of cars from France. The same procedure is followed for virtually all other commodities.

Andorra is also the prime stopping place for those who wish to circumvent all customs and who seek to slip goods, without paying duty, from Spain into France, and from France into Spain.

Because of the waterfalls in the adjacent countryside, Andorra has a vast surplus of electricity. Radio Andorra is a powerful station broadcasting in four languages: English, Spanish, French and Catalan. It carries advertising on a scale that would make an American network blush with envy.

A committee of 24 forms the legislative body that governs the country. This body, however, is responsible to co-princes, one of whom has the right to veto laws that might be considered harmful to Spain, and the other prince usually vetoes laws considered not to the best interests of France.

EUROPE'S third out-of-the-way principality is romantic Lichtenstein, a nation of 13,000 prosperous people whose 6,500 cows form the greatest unit of wealth in 60 square miles of land on the Swiss-Austrian border, about three hours by train from Zurich.

This very prosperous little country knows neither poverty nor great wealth. Besides the cattle it raises, Lichtenstein is noted for its wines and potatoes. Although predominantly agricultural, this little kingdom has several plants that turn out ceramics, vacuum pumps and yarn.

Lichtenstein's stamps also are a source of revenue for the country, one-third of its income coming from philatelists who seek Lichtenstein's brightly-colored bits of official paper.

The capital city of Vaduz is naturally the official residence of the principality's ruler, Franz Josef II, Fuerst von Lichtenstein. Vaduz boasts of several good hotels for those who seek a haven of peace and rest away from the hullabaloo of the big city and the bright lights.

Slight Increase For Livestock

Animal Population Hike Paced by Hogs

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16—(AP)—Livestock and poultry on the nation's farms and ranches increased two percent during 1949. This was the first time since 1943 that the numbers showed an increase.
Reporting this, today, the Agriculture Department said that nevertheless the number on January 1 was 16 percent below the record of January 1 1944.
Last year's expansion included a three percent upturn in cattle six percent for hogs and seven percent for poultry.
Although total numbers increased, the farm value of January 1 this year was ten percent below the record of $14,657,000,000 a year ago, but 54 percent above the average value for the 1939-48 period.
The numbers of various species and their estimated total farm values, respectively, compared with the numbers and values a year ago, included:

All cattle, 80,277,000 head with value of $9,873,710,000 compared with 78,298,000 and $10,552,421,000.
Milk cows 24,625,000 head at $4,350,936,000 compared with 24,416,000 at $4,715,844,000.
Hogs, 60,424,000 at $1,638,964,000 compared with 57,128,000 at $2,183,553,000.
All sheep 30,797,000 at $548,248,000 compared with 31,654,000 at $543,862,000.
Stock sheep, 27,064,000 at $480,641,000 compared with 27,651,000 at $470,460,000.
The department said abundant feed supplies and generally favorable prices for most livestock and livestock products in relation to feed prices prompted last year's expansion in meat animals and poultry.
Cost of operating a television receiver is estimated on the average to run two-fifths of a cent per clock hour where the rate for electric current is two cents per kilowatt hour.

Judge Richmond Keach

FEDERAL JUDGE Richmond Keach is shown in Washington as he read over the restraining order he issued against John L. Lewis and his United Mine Workers. Yielding to the court's order, Lewis directed 370,000 striking soft-coal miners to return to work. (International)

German Truckers Getting Sore At Everyone, Including Allies, Over Russian Berlin Blockade

BERLIN, Feb. 16—(AP)—The patience of the German truck driver who worries a cargo through the Russian zone is wearing thin.

Here on the outskirts of Berlin gather nightly dozens of burly men who have stolidly waited their turn to get through the Soviet checkpoint at Helmstedt 100 miles to the west.

Unshaven and tired, they wheel their giant trucks into an "autohof" order a drink and then gripe about what happened from the time they left western Germany.

Six foot two Hans from Duesseldorf is typical and what he says about the Soviet heckling on the border is mostly unprintable. But Hans says also:

"I don't understand these allies. There are three of them and they let Ivan play cat and mouse with them. They must be afraid to take a chance."

Hans says he is sick and tired of Russians keeping him waiting at Helmstedt for as much as 30 hours at a stretch. But he is almost as sick and tired of the western allies for allowing it.

"A new blockade will come very soon without the Russians officially putting their fingers into the pie," he says. "Pretty soon west German companies will not send any more trucks through. They'll put their stuff on the trains. Maybe that's what the Russians want, I don't know."

"What I don't get is this: we Germans aren't afraid of them, why are you?"

"These drivers bring about 225 trucks daily to Berlin, each with about ten tons of food and other supplies. Since the Soviets started delaying tactics the flow has been cut considerably."

While the high foreign office and army officials ponder the Soviet conduct the driver freezes, loses money and time, goes without shaving and winds up getting the dickens from the little woman.

One driver left Bremerhaven with five tons of fish for Berlin. For this he is paid 60 marks a week regular salary (about $15) and six marks daily expenses. At the Helmstedt checkpoint he had to wait in a lineup for 35 hours with the temperature below zero.

"Didn't get a wink of sleep," he said. Every ten minutes or so he had to start up his engine to keep it warm or move up in the line. Get-rich-quick guys selling soup on the scene were charging a mark a plate, which is big money in Germany.

Soup didn't do the job completely so he needed tow cognacs, which was another three marks. This chewed up two-thirds of his six marks per day expenses. Finally he got to the Russians.

"Everything was okay on my papers," he said. "But one figure was written in pencil instead of being typed. I had to go to Hannover, get it fixed and come back.

That took me ten hours. When got to Berlin finally the fish was almost ruined. I was 52 hours on the road, one way."

Another driver said he had a ton of grain aboard and a Russian officer made him unload the whole works. When he got it off the truck, another shift of guards came on duty and told him that was silly. He lost ten hours and a lot of sweat reloading the grain.

A third driver took a cargo of electric bulbs from Berlin to Hamburg with every item "marked neatly on the cargo papers." The Russians turned him back because 50 of the bulbs were of a different type than the bulk of the cargo.

Said another driver:

"Look around and see what we spend. Now how would you like to go back and face the wife? You can blame it on the Russians all you want to. Sure, they are costing us money, but we go past American and British guards and the wife wants to know what they are doing about it."

Ohioans Get Benefits

NEW YORK, Feb. 16—(AP)—The Institute of Life Insurance yesterday reported Ohioans received $93,023,000 in life insurance death benefits during 1949. The amount was some $3,000,000 less than the $96,519,000 paid during 1948.

Priceless Art of Hapsburgs Now on Display in Washington

Solid gold salt cellar by Cellini—"Twenty million wouldn't buy it."

By JOSEPH A. DEAR
Central Press Correspondent
WASHINGTON—Fabulous art treasure—the entire fortune of an Aga Khan couldn't buy half of it—is now on display at the National Gallery of Art.

It's a portion of the famous Vienna collection, gathered by the Hapsburg rulers of Austria-Hungary over centuries.

Washingtonians can see it for free, and the day the exhibition opened more than 41,000 of them did. Early next year the art will be displayed in New York, Chicago and San Francisco.

Even the person who knows nothing about art is impressed by this collection of paintings, jewels, tapestries, ornamental armor and cameos.

Consider the unguent jar made by Dionysio Miseroni in 1642. It is carved from the world's largest emerald—about four inches high and three inches wide. The Austrians say its value as a gem exceeds $90 million. And Miseroni's art work has further enhanced the jewel.

WHO CAN ASSESS, the 129 paintings in the collection? A reporter suggested $80 million might be a fair price, but Dr. Buschbeck, curator of the Vienna Historical Museum, said if anyone made such a piddling offer, "I would throw him out." What is the value? Dr. Buschbeck shrugged. What would be the value of a copyright on the Bible? he parried.

Anyway, the art works are not for sale at any price. They are the property of the Austrian people, and have been since the Hapsburgs were deposed at the end of World War I.

But repeated assurances that the collection is not for sale don't stop the bidding. Andrew Mellon, whose fortune established the National Gallery, wanted Vermeer's painting of The Artist in His Studio to hang there. He offered the Vienna Museum a cool million for the prize picture, and was turned down cold. Ironically, a German family once purchased the Vermeer masterpiece for less than $100!

MULTIPLY the Vermeer by 129, and you begin to grasp the importance of the collection. Tintoretto, Titian, Rubens, Correggio, Velazquez, Veronese—their paintings by the wallful. And these are but a few of the masters. Any of their works are probably as valuable, artistically speaking, as the Vermeer which Mellon couldn't buy for a million.

Almost everybody uses salt cellars. But few have ever seen such a salt shaker as is now reposing in the National Gallery. It contains nine pounds of solid gold ($35 an ounce). Also, it is considered one of the finest creations of Renaissance art.

Made by Benvenuto Cellini about 1540 for the King of France, this little breakfast table adornment was almost melted down in 1662

RHODES SCHOLAR TURNS 'DESERT RAT' IN BID TO DISPROVE DARWIN THEORY

By JACK GEDDIE
Central Press Correspondent
GLEN ROSE, Tex.—In this little county-seat town of Glen Rose, is a Rhodes scholar and Oxford graduate intently set upon disproving money and time came from ape. He lives among rubble, jawbones of prehistoric homo sapiens, and a little self-sufficient paradise. At the same time, to keep from being jailed as a vagrant, he serves as Somervell county attorney, utilizing the law degree he won at Baylor university, Waco, Tex.

"Bull" Adams

Large, barrel-chested, broad-shouldered, powerful (he once drove an arrow through the thick shell of an armadillo which was uprooting his garden), E. T. "Bull" Adams is focusing the full power of his concentration upon the origin of man. He is humble, quiet-spoken, and loved by the people of Glen Rose.

He spends most of his time in caves in the rattlesnake and scrub-oak wilderness of the limestone hills west of Glen Rose, amid the deposits of human bones. He has registered several "finds," one of which he hopes to use in establishing his theory that man and his ancestors in North America bypassed the development of the ape, and that man has been in North America as long as he has been anywhere else, particularly Asia.

A LONE wolf in the field of physical anthropology, his "finds" are carefully preserved and filed in cigar boxes, apple crates, and other cartons stacked around an old abandoned garage that he has converted into a workshop. Between trying cases as Somervell county attorney, he digs in his caves and works on manuscripts he is preparing for publication. With the evidence he has found, he hopes to bear out the theory of Dr. Franz von Weidenreich who in Apes, Giants and Man wrote: "The evolution of primate branch which we call 'man' must have been much earlier than we ever dreamed."

He candidly disregards all theories of authorities in the field of physical anthropology. He believes, for instance, that he can prove that there were birds in early prehistoric times. This and other finds will be set forth in his Ancient People of Central Texas, which he is now compiling.

Adams was born in a log cabin on Rock Creek in southern Somerv-vell county, on Feb. 23, 1888. In 1908 he made his first discovery of the "cave man," a Pittdown jaw, and that started his interest in anthropology.

He spent his boyhood in Glen Rose, finishing high school, and going to the academy at Baylor, and finally finishing with a law degree at Baylor university, where he won the Rhodes scholarship. He wanted to study surgery, but could not get it at Oxford, so he majored in the classics, Latin, Greek, history and the modern languages.

HE CAME back to his old farmstead in 1914 and farmed at Rock Creek for seven years. Married and admitted to the bar in 1921, he practiced law in Glen Rose and moved later to Dallas, where he and his wife began rearing two children. He was a successful lawyer in Dallas, but "too much confinement" broke his health, and he came back—alone—to Glen Rose, leaving his family comfortably settled in Dallas.

He spent most of his time out of doors, doing field research and exploring for human remains, at odd times trying a legal case for "eating money." In 1946 Adams was appointed county attorney, after there had been rumors of charges being filed against him as a vagrant. He was so well-liked by the people of Somervell county that they voted for him at the next election.

Asked if he missed the comforts of a home, he replied that he found his present way of life "unconfining." He cooks in the open, grows many of his fresh vegetables, sleeps under the stars, unworried about anything except the one thought upon which he brings powerful concentration—the origin of man in North America.

Smart Farming Reclaims Land

Dust Bowl Ranch
Rewards Efforts

By ROBERT E. FORD
TEXLINE, Tex.—How tough can things get? Ace Willis almost found out.

He and his wife sat in their tenant house in the dust bowl and mentally surveyed 18 square miles of barren land. It was a dismal picture. Hardly a drop of rain had fallen on those 11,520 acres in three years.

It wasn't even the Willis' land.
They were paying rent on it.
Three years before, their Oklahoma cotton ginning and implement business had disappeared in the depression. It looked like their farming venture was about to go the same way.

It was a time when the "Oaks" were on the move. Experts were saying the dust bowl land should never have gone under the plow.
People were tracted out, dusted and discouraged out. Three years of that dust bowl was about all a lot of people could stand.

Demonstration Tract

Just when things looked their worst, Mr. and Mrs. Willis got the laugh of their lives. The county agent at that time, J. S.
Coleman, Jr., drove out. He made them the wildest proposal they'd ever heard. He wanted the Willises to show that section of Hartley County how to farm-to make theirs a demonstration farm.

"I thought it was the craziest thing I had ever heard," Willis said. "We hadn't demonstrated anything except the futility of trying to farm here."

Mr. and Mrs. Willis talked it over. "We got to thinking that there might be something to all the planning the county agent was talking about, and we decided to try it."

Look at the Willis today:
They own 35 square miles of farm and ranch land. That's 22,400 acres. They have a fine new home with conveniences equal to those of any city dwelling. About 1,800
head of their cattle are grazing
27 sections and there are 5,500 acres in cultivation. (A section equals a square mile.) The land is producing bountifully.

Willis, and many like him, have whipped the dust bowl. That wide section of America rarely is referred to by that term any more.
Combination Blamed

Louis Franke, writing in the Extensioner, official publication of the Texas A. & M. extension service, explains:

"The thing a lot of people haven't realized is that what caused the dust bowl wasn't just a long drought, a lot of wind and lack of conservation practices, but a combination of those things with a depression."

Franke quotes Ace Willis:
"You can't fight wind erosion on 25-cent wheat, and you can't hold moisture when it rains if you haven't got money—or credit
—to buy tractor fuel."

"Today, we know a lot more about how to handle the land, and we have the power and the equipment to do in a matter of hours what would have taken weeks to do 15 years ago. And weeks won't get the job done
when you're fighting wind erosion."

Willis scoffs at the theorists who said land like his should never have been cultivated—that it should have been left in pasture to keep the soil from blowing.
He cites as an example two of his sections of former "blowland"— once an area of sand dunes which looked something like those of the Sahara desert.

Willis left Oklahoma to try farming in Hartley County in 1933.
He thought in big terms and rented 18 sections—11,520 acres.
He "dusted in" a feed crop that year—planted in dry land. One section got a light shower—not enough for a crop. The other sections were dry. He tried to raise pigs and came out with a possible profit of $21.

In 1934, he planted several thousand acres of wheat. Not a grain was harvested—too dry a year. He worked for an implement company in Oklahoma and made a slight profit feeding cattle to keep going.

He planted wheat again in 1935.
It blew out. That fall, he did raise some feed and custompastured 700 head of cattle.

That was about the time Coleman proposed that the Willis operate a demonstration farm.
Plans included soil and water conservation aimed at holding the rain where it fell, raising cattle and hogs, planting of windbreaks, sodding of the yard to keep dust out of the house, terracing and summer fallowing.

Diversified Farming

Also, Coleman persuaded Willis to leave the one-crop route.
He divided his 18 sections into eight sections of wheat, two of native pasture, two of row crops, three of sudan pasture and three of summer fallow.

That fall it rained, and in the summer of 1936, Willis harvested 68,000 bushels of wheat.
"You've got to give rains credit," Willis said. "But don't forget the land was ready for the rain when it came."

That 68,000 bushels of wheat was more than was harvested in all the rest of Hartley County that year. Willis had really demonstrated. In 1937, he made nearly $2,000 from hogs alone.
In the winter of 1938-39, he rented his wheat for pasture for $7,200. Cattle are allowed to graze young wheat, to keep the wheat from getting too tall too early.

That was the year Ace decided to buy. He purchased a section in Dallam County for $3.50 an acre. It was the core of what now is 35 sections. It was desert blowland. But Ace already knew how to stop the blowing.
Also, about this time farmers in the area discovered great reservoirs of underground water and began irrigating large areas. Ace has 16 wells now on his place.

The family moved to the new property in 1942. Just the previous year, he harvested 100,000 bushels of wheat, summered 3,000 cattle on sudan, fed out 2,000 head of Mexican work oxen and 1,000
steers and hit a jackpot on 150 acres of potatoes.

GI Trade Schools Hit by Labor Leader

COLUMBUS, Feb. 16--(P)--A Toledo labor leader said today expansion of the National Apprenticeship program would stop the "exploitation" of veterans by quickie trade schools.

John W. Jockel, secretary-treasurer of the Ohio council, bricklayers, masons and plasterers union, AFL, made the assertion in a statement released at the first Ohio Apprenticeship Conference. The two-day meetings ends today.

Jockel said the majority of private trade schools "were only interested in receiving tuition under the GI Bill."

"The GI is wasting time and the taxpayer's money by attempting to learn a skilled craft in one of these short-course trade schools," he declared.

The veteran labor leader called for a national committee of representatives of labor, management and vocational education to pass on the qualifications of trade schools to teach a craft.

A CHEROKEE Indian, Harley Lamarr, 19, is shown after he had been arrested in connection with the slaying of Mrs. Marion B. Frisbee, wealthy young Buffalo, N. Y., society woman. Her body was found lying in an ice-covered ditch not far from Buffalo. (International)

IN THE COURT OF COMMON PLEAS, FAYETTE COUNTY, OHIO
NOTICE NO. 20909

Walter Pence, Plaintiff
vs.
Fanny Pence, Defendant
Fanny Pence, whose last known place of residence is Care of Thelma Haffner, 405 Buckner Street, Mayaville, Kentucky, will take notice that on November 14, 1949, the undersigned filed his petition against her in the Court of Common Pleas of Fayette County, Ohio, praying for a divorce and relief on grounds of gross neglect of duty. Said cause will be for hearing on the 27th day of February, 1950.

CHAPTER EIGHTEEN
"THINGS MUST be getting tough," said the newspaper man. "Those lads you propositioned now'd you get a line on them?"
"I followed a nunch," Shayne replied.
"Sure it was a right nunch? Maybe they didn't savvy the sort of fix you offered."
"They understood, all right. There's something screwy going on, Tim. Something I can't put my finger on."
Rourke sat up straighter but masked his eagerness with a casual tone, though his eyes glowed brightly in their sockets and his nostrils twitched like a bloodhound's on the scent. "Something phony about the heist itself? Inside angles?"
"I don't know. I'd take Walter Voorland's word any time and any place on the value of the stuff. And Earl Randolph issued a policy on the full purchase price." Shayne frowned deeply and drew on his cigarette.

"Dustin's the only unknown factor," Rourke pointed out. "From the west, isn't he?"
"The west sticks out all over him. But he did get smashed up in the heist, and there's no angle in it for him," Shayne exploded. "He can't recover more than he paid for the bracelet."

"Sometimes a guy figures it's nice to have the stones and the insurance money, too."
"Only if the cursed things will bring a fair sum under the counter," Shayne reminded him. "That's what makes this thing so crazy. Star rubies can't be fenced like other stuff. And if there's anything wrong about Dustin, he must know it'll come out in the investigation that's certain to be made. No insurance company is going to pay out a wad of dough like that without checking back on him closely, no matter where he lives. No, as near as I can see, Dustin is out."

"Who does that leave?"
"No one."
Rourke emptied his glass and got up. He went across to the bathroom and inside, leaving the door ajar. From beyond the door he said, "I can ask around about the two boys who worked on you. Might pick up a line on them some way."

"I've got a lead of my own," Shayne said, "but I can't start on it until tomorrow."
Rourke came out of the bathroom, and watching him from beneath lowered lids, Shayne said, "Well, guess I'll turn in." He started to yawn, but his sore chin stopped it.

"I can take a hint," said Rourke.

Almost 250 at Lincoln Dinner Here Last Nite

Main Speaker Warns
GOP Leaders of
Socialism Spread

Gordon Renner told almost 250 Fayette County Republicans Wednesday night that Senator Robert A. Taft and "just a handful of senators and congressmen are keeping this country from going down the road England is."

Occasion for this popular Hamilton County Republican's remarks was the annual Lincoln Day dinner of the Republican Party leaders in this county, held in the American Legion Hall.

Renner, one of the most able leaders in the House of Representatives in the Ohio General Assembly, called upon leaders here to support Taft in the coming election.

"We are voting this time for principles like we've never had to before," Renner declared.

Stating that "the hour is growing late," Renner said it is essential to the American way of life that Taft be returned to the Senate.

Kline Roberts of Columbus, who shared the speaking assignment with Renner, told the assembled Republicans that their party needed "leadership that will take it ahead."

Young Republicans Needed

"Our party can attempt to bring the highest standard of living to this country...by putting our economy in such a shape that it is able to provide this standard of living," Roberts stated.

Roberts stressed the importance of keeping politics in motion--of getting leaders who will lead the way and of getting workers who will ring doorbells.

Walter Sollars, chairman of the Republican Central Committee in the county, echoed some of Roberts' sentiments and pointed out the need for Republicans to get younger men interested in the party.

"Some of us old graybeards can't carry on forever. I'm afraid some of our young folks are going to wake up too late. They've got to fight for it," Sollars told his audience.

Purpose of the gathering was to help provide some of the impetus needed to give plans for the formulation of a Young Republican Club a start in this county.

David L. McDonald, of Granville, director of young Republicans for the state of Ohio, described the work of the state GOP organization.

He said: "We have ambitions to form Young Republican clubs in 83 colleges and 88 counties in the state of Ohio."

"We have one thing to offer the young people of Ohio which the Democrats can't--We can offer them a future," McDonald declared.

Short talks were given by several local Republican leaders. Charles Hire said the American Legion in its fight against Communism could only rely on one party now to aid it in its campaign, "and that's the Republican Party," Hire declared.

Candidates Introduced

Ray Maddox sounded a warning about socialism, declaring that "America was already half socialist."

Glenn Rodgers, chairman of the Fayette County Republican executive committee, welcomed the Republicans and introduced Charles Hire, vice chairman of the Republican executive committee, who in turn introduced all the county candidates and those running for state senator and state representative from this area.

Those candidates introduced included the following: state senator Albert Daniels of Greenfield and Gene Bliss of Ross County; state representative Virgil Perrill and Thomas H. Parrett; county auditor Ulric Acton; commissioner Roy Porter, Omar Sturgeon, Jean Nisley and Cliff Hughes, and county engineer, C. P. Wagner.

Ray Maddox introduced the headline speaker of the evening Gordon Renner, an attorney in Cincinnati and minority party whip in the House of Representatives, Ohio General Assembly.

The meal, featuring chicken and biscuits, was served to the Republicans by the members of the American Legion auxiliary.

Thomas Lindsey Dies Suddenly

Lifelong Resident
Heart Attack Victim

Thomas E. Lindsey, 73, native of Washington, C. H., who formerly was affiliated with various circuses, died suddenly in his apartment in the Midland Block, Wednesday about 3:30 P. M.

His body was found on the floor beside his bed. Dr. N. M. Reiff returned a verdict of death by a heart attack.

Mr. Lindsey had been ill for several days, having suffered a serious heart attack Sunday night. However, he responded to treatment and apparently was improving.

Friends calling upon him during Wednesday found him apparently much better in the afternoon. He ate his evening dinner shortly after 5 P. M. When Miss Alta Sturgeon, who had been assisting in caring for him, went to his door at 6:15 P. M., she received no answer. Investigating, she found Mr. Lindsey had passed away.

Mr. Lindsey was a son of Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Lindsey, and in addition to spending a number of years with various circuses, he was employed at the old Opera House which stood on West Market Street, and later was caretaker at the Y. M. C. A. here for years.

He was a member of Grace Methodist Church and a regular attendant at the services here. He was also a charter member of the Eagles Lodge. For more than 25 years he had occupied an apartment on the second floor of the Midland Block on Main Street. He leaves a wide circle of friends.

He is survived by one sister, Mrs. Robert McLean, of Santa Barbara, Calif., and one nephew, Gene McLean of near Milledgeville.

Funeral services will be held Friday at 2 P. M. at the Kirkpatrick Funeral Home. Burial will be made in the family lot in the Washington, C. H. Cemetery. Rev. Allan W. Caley will conduct the services.

Friends may call at the funeral home after 6 P. M. Thursday.

Two Men Taken To Workhouse

Wayne Speakmas, who had been fined by Justice of the Peace S. P. Ludwick and sentenced to 30 days in the Cincinnati Workhouse, was taken to that institution Wednesday, in custody of Deputy Sheriff Charles Foster. He was charged with assault and battery.

Warren Dennis, who had been given a fine of $300 and costs and three months in the workhouse when he was taken before Judge Rell G. Allen on a non-support charge, was also taken to the workhouse by Deputy Foster.

COMMUNITY SHOWER

HILLSBORO —A community shower will be held at Marshall School Feb. 21, for Mr. and Mrs. Hartzell Robinson and family, who lost all personal possessions when their home was destroyed by fire.

The Old Home Town

Five New Members Taken into Elks

Five new members were initiated into the Elks Lodge (BPOE 129) here Wednesday night. They included Charles C. Funk of Jeffersonville and Chester J. Brown, Robert Carman, Roy Hagler and Ralph Thompson, all of Washington, C. H.

W. A. Armbrust, past exalted ruler, conducted the initiation. The addition of the five men to the lodge rolls brought the number of members here to 346. Four and a half years ago the membership was only 161.

Lodge sorrow was held for two departed members, Charles H. Bryant and Auburn C. Glover.

Bomber Crew Found

northern shore of Vancouver Island, whence the C-82 picked them up.

In Canada, Captain Barry told of the sudden descent. "It iced up at 15,000 feet. We tried to climb, but fire broke out in No. 1 engine and flames showed about it. Two minutes later No. 2 burst into flames, and we started to lose altitude. We were dropping at 300 feet a minute. Fire in No. 5 started shortly after, and then No. 3 stopped with a plugged gas line."

So with three flaming motors and another disabled, Captain Barry gave the order to jump.

The men were whisked out of the plane inside of 10 or 15 seconds, he said. He was the last to hit the silk.

He landed in a slush and ice filled lake on Princess Royal Island, he said, drenching his parachute as he dragged it to shore. Next morning he located Whitfield and later they heard Trippod shouting for help. After removing him from the tree they bedded him down on boughs and headed for the coast. They met the others there and were picked up by the fishing boat a short while later.

The B-36 crash was not without its tragic aspects. A B-29 bomber, taking off from Great Falls, Mont., to join in the search yesterday, crashed two miles south of its base. Eight men were killed.

Early American colonists in New England not only forbade the celebration of Christmas as a holiday, but the singing of carols.

To Ship Corn Here to Africa

20,000 Bushels
Being Loaded Now

Part of the corn stored under government loans in the converted Washington Icehouse on West Temple Street, will soon be headed for Africa, according to Harry Silcott, county AAA chairman.

Silcott said 20,000 bushels of the shelled 1948 corn is being loaded in box cars at the Farm Bureau Co-op elevator. All but about two carloads of corn have already been loaded.

Soon the corn will be headed for the Dark Continent. The government took title to the corn last October, when government loans on it were liquidated.

Silcott said the corn is coming out in good shape. "We are tremendously pleased with the way the corn has kept," he stated.

The county AAA chairman said tests show that the corn is grading out at No. 3 and 4, weighing between 56 and 57 pounds a bushel and containing between 12 and 13 1/2 percent moisture.

An "evacuator" is used to pull the corn out of the icehouse into waiting trucks for hauling to the Farm Bureau elevator. The device pulls out between 400 and 500 bushels an hour.

Approximately 50,000 bushels of shelled corn was stored in the icehouse last October. Other thousands of bushels of corn was stored in temporary metal bins in Washington, C. H., near Madison Mills and at Jeffersonville.
